

HOME HAPPENINGS

—Age steals over a man like drowsy sleep.

—Most of the village stores will be closed Thanksgiving day.

—J. Delfs & Sons last Saturday shipped two car loads of hides.

—Local people held a social party in town hall last Saturday night.

—An old folks' concert will be given in college chapel Wednesday evening, Dec. 5.

—A number of Canfield Odd Fellows visited their Youngtown brethren Monday evening.

—E. E. Hull and his men are building an addition to M. J. Neff's barn on West Main street.

—P. F. Myers and family on Monday took possession of their new home on Lisbon street.

—On Thanksgiving day the Canfield postoffice will be open from 7 to 9 a. m., and 4:30 to 6 p. m.

—Word comes from John Delfs, who left last summer to visit his old home in Germany, that he will sail for home next Saturday.

—The next lecture of the Normal college course will be given by Glenn Frank Friday and Saturday evenings, Dec. 12 and 13.

—A special meeting of Past Masters will be held in the Masonic lodge room this (Friday) evening to confer the P. M. degree upon a candidate.

—Union Thanksgiving services will be held in the M. E. Church next Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. Rev. Forrest H. Hill will pronounce the sermon.

—The ladies of the Methodist church will serve their usual Thanksgiving turkey dinner in the church dining room next Thursday. The expense will be only 35c.

—On account of Thanksgiving, the Dispatch will be printed Thursday morning next week. Local correspondents and advertisers are requested to send in their favors early.

—Mark H. Liddle, cashier of the Farmers' National bank, who is with a party of friends hunting big game in northern Michigan, writes that he killed a large buck deer the other day.

—Word comes that J. R. Taber who some weeks since removed to Alliance to engage in the real estate and insurance business, is doing well and is much pleased with his new home.

—Rev. James Van Kirk of Youngstown will deliver a lecture at Zion Reformed church next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on "A Trip Around the World." No admission will be charged. Everybody cordially invited.

—Mrs. A. S. Lynn of this township is recovering from injuries received some time since. She was milking a cow which kicked and startled another animal standing near, causing it to kick Mrs. Lynn in the side, inflicting painful injuries.

—It is understood that an effort will be made to induce the trustees of Canfield township to join the state in improving the road from Childers' Corners to the Ellsworth township line. This would give five miles of improved road straight west.

—Harry Donaldson and his men are connecting the gas well on the Dickson farm with the main of the Altimo Gas Co. It is expected that the work will be completed by Saturday night. This assures Canfield people of plenty of gas for the coming winter.

—Repairs must soon be made on the macadam road leading north from Canfield or there will be nothing left to work on. Deep holes have been cut in many places, making travel over them in an automobile or other conveyance anything but a comfort and a joy.

—J. Allen Kline of this township, who had his right leg broken in a runaway accident some weeks since, returned home last Friday from the Youngstown City hospital where he was taken soon after the accident. He is getting along nicely and will soon be able to get out and around.

—Hunters swarmed woods and fields last Saturday and rabbits that only a few days before had been able to dig out of snowdrifts were slaughtered by hundreds. Local hunters were very successful, many bags of ten or more rabbits being reported. The season is open for only twenty days from last Saturday.

—Eight deputies from the state game warden's office disguised as hunters, are scouring the woods in this region in search of violation of the game laws. Thirty-six alleged violations of the game laws since the rabbit season opened have been reported from East Liverpool and Wellsville to the state game warden.

—Secretary Phil Wetmore of the Mahoning County Farmers' Institute has been advised by the State Board of Agriculture that the annual institute will be held in Canfield Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 15 and 16. The state speakers assigned are L. G. Spencer of Niles and E. J. Hoddy. A committee is now at work preparing a program.

—Rev. Robert E. Pugh and family were tendered a farewell reception at the Presbyterian church last Friday evening, a large number of people being present. Mr. Pugh came from Lisbon to Canfield about five years ago and had since been pastor of the Presbyterian church. At a recent meeting in Youngstown of the Synod of the Presbyterian church he was elected superintendent of Synodical Home Missions of Ohio, one of the most important places within the gift of Synod. This made it necessary for him to resign the pastorate of the local church. At the reception Thursday evening there was a musical program and short talks were made by several men and women. All spoke highly of the work done here by Mr. Pugh, not only in church circles but as a citizen. In everything looking to the uplift of the community he was a leader. On behalf of the church J. L. Manchester presented Mr. Pugh with a purse of money and Phil Wetmore as representative of the corner band, in which Mr. Pugh was an active singer, handed him a traveling toilet set. Mr. Pugh in fitting words expressed his deep appreciation of the gifts bestowed and the kind things said of him. The ladies of the church served light refreshments. Mr. Pugh and his family go to their new home in Columbus accompanied by the best wishes of this entire community.

—There is still evidence along some country roads of the last week's big snow storm. In places drifts were five and six feet high and it will be some time before all the snow disappears. Rural mail carriers were able to make complete trips last Friday for the first time during the week despite the fact that some roads were almost impassable.

—A Roumanian with an unpronounceable name arrived in Canfield Tuesday evening. He had on little clothing and was in his stocking feet. He could speak little English but it was finally learned that while walking from North Lima to this place he was pounced upon by two colored men who robbed him of what little money he possessed, his coat, vest, hat and shoes. The unfortunate man was provided with lodging and clothing and shoes were furnished by kind-hearted people who heard his story.

NOVEMBER.

The day stands in the joyless fields wrapped in his sombre gown, the forest trees look desolate and cold in scant array, the setting sun shows angry red against the western sky, and savage winds, presaging storms and snow, go howling by. The draperies October wore, their gorgeous gold and red, are faded now and tattered, lie along the river's bed. The hunting dogs are rounded up; the possums take on fat, and when we hear the coon dog's bay, we know just where they're at. The timid quail pipes low and soft where hazelnuts are ripe, the prowling hunter finds his lair and soon puts out its pipe. The rabbit scurries through the brush, and his cotton tail, the wayward pointer risks his life by taking up his trail. The coon dog's deep contralto bay on the nocturnal air gives evidence that he has found the wily possum's lair, and for that hapless possum's fate you need no longer search if you'll attend to the supper at the colored Baptist church.—Ex.
